March is high season at Vail. Warmer days and powder storms are common. Keystone, Breckinridge, Vail and Beaver Creek will be the main skiing. Each vehicle group can pick a fifth mountain for the last ski day including Copper Mt. or Arapahoe Basin. But Vail is usually everyone's favorite.

Airfares early November: United: SFO 11:15 to Denver at 14:50. Return:13:55 to SFO @15:30. Plane:757. Price $319 plus 2 luggage fees. Southwest: SFO 10:10 to Denver 13:50 Return 17:35 to SFO @ 19:20 Fare $279 & OAK 10:30 to DEN 14:00. Return Noon to OAK @15:50 Fare $263. San Jose: $295 other times possible.

SUV rentals may be much higher in 2012 due to company mergers.

Advice: Get in a 3-4 person SUV rental group before selecting air itinerary. Experience tells us that flying Frontier/United if the others are on Southwest does NOT guarantee arrival in Denver together under winter weather conditions. An alternate especially if signing up late is using VAN Shuttle service from/to Denver airport then joining an SUV group to ski daily. Latter can be tricky since one never knows what actual vehicle will be offered at the airport. SUV CARGO SPACE can vary greatly so fitting one more skier is ?
